OTHER INFO

The company was founded in the early '60s by Beniamino Maschio, inheritor of a family tradition that has linked the Maschio name to grappa for over three centuries. While still very young, Beniamino began distilling with his brothers in their father's distillery. In 1964, he started his own business in San Michele di Feletto on the hills of Conegliano. Blending love for the profession and a deep study of experimentation, he learned to produce excellent distillations of grape marc, and learned how to blend and age them to craft refined and incredibly elegant products.

Today, Beniamino Maschio's grappas continue to convey the extraordinary quality of this most celebrated Italian distillate outside the country. Research, technique, and quality are the watchwords in his company, thanks to the commitment that the talented wine specialists pour daily into bringing out the original varietal stampings in every distillate and grappa.
