AWARDS & ACCOLADES

2022 ~ 93 Points. "Intense and spicy, showing turmeric, dried rosemary, wet stones and attractive dark fruit. Medium- to full-bodied, compact and beautifully balanced, offering complexity without excess weight. Long and focused. Drink or hold." - Andrii Stetsiuk - James Suckling, Jun/2026

2022 ~ 90 Points. "Cherries and hibiscus highlight the wine’s aroma. The palate feels black fruited with ash and crunchy underripe fruit. Tannins feel sharpened and firm as the wine finishes, then it gets joined alongside an easy going acidity." - Michael Laudenslager - Wine Enthusiast, Aug/2026

2022 ~ "Tommasi has 110+ years experience growing cabernet sauvignon in central Toscana, and that tradition continues here in Maremma, in Toscana's southwest corner. This 60/40 mix of sangiovese / cabernet sauvignon comes off the Pitigliano estate, with soils rich in calcium carbonate tufa, and remains the flagship of the estate. This is fermented in stainless before fermenting and aging 1 year in large 65hL Slavonian casks. The bright tart cherry, tomato leaf of the sangiovese is bolstered by a graphite structural framework, courtesy of the cabernet. The interplay between the two works well, with grippy cedar-hewn tannins, fresh acidity, and lingering roasted coffee on the finish. One for roast dinners." - Treve Ring - Gismondi on Wine, Jun/2026

OTHER INFO

Poggio al Tufo is a 66-hectare estate in the south of Tuscany, owned by the Tommasi family, one of the world's foremost Amarone producers, founded in 1902. The wine is grown in the Rompicollo vineyard, which has southern exposure, volcanic soils and is densely-planted to 6,500 vines per hectare.
